“ I am Carrie Johnston's Mother. I was very saddened to hear of her passing. I would visit Joanne when I would come visit my daughter. I will always have fond memories of visiting with Joanne. My favorite time was when I was visiting for my daughter's graduation and Joanne made coconut cake. It was the best coconut cake, I have ever tasted. She was very talented at cooking at baking. I am very appreciative of how kind she was towards my daughter. I will miss hearing Joanne tell stories of her childhood and youth, but I am glad she carried those stories on to me. She had strong faith in the word and a woman of God, so I know that she is with God in heaven. My condolences to the family. I will be writing a check to the church Joanne attended, in memory of Joanne.

“ I met Joanne, almost 5 years ago in March, as I was a home health-aide. I worked for her for about 6 months before I left that job to finish my degree as a therapist. When it was my last date working for Joanne, she asked me to please stay in contact and gave me her number to call. I will be forever grateful that I did that because over the last 4 years, she has become like a grandmother for me. When I moved here 5 years ago, I had no friends or family close by and I was really homesick. Joanne was my first friend here and she taught me so much about southern culture. She often told me stories of her life and I will cherish those.

Joanne was the kindest person I have ever known or met. She was creative and always determined. I love how she drew, crochet, knitted, arranged flowers, and made jewelry. She was truly an inspiration. I have a photo of the grinch that she drew and a necklace, bracelet, and earring set that she made me...I will forever hold onto those things. I am not sure if Joanne ever knew how much she really meant to me but she was really important to me. She was uplifting and I knew that if I was having a rough day, I could call her and ask how she was doing and she would tell me a story and I would instantly be in a better mood.

I know she is in a better place now and is pain-free and flying high. Her memory will live on forever. My mother Donna Miller and I will be sending a donation to the church listed in memory of her, in Lou of flowers. I know how important church was to her and I think that would be the best way to honor her memory.

My deepest condolences go out to her family; her children. She always told me about them and I know they must be hurting. I know that they do not know me but if they ever need anything, they are free to reach out to me.
