I love you girl and am keeping you and David in my thoughts and prayers. God is watching over Addison and she's one of his little angels..I'm praying for God to be with you and David and comfort you all and give you strength because there will be days of tears and heartache when His comfort and strength will be there for you..I've always been told that things happen for a reason even though we may not always understand those reason or do they always seem fair...Love you girl be strong little Bently's looking up too you...Gail
