“ I have one more memory I'd like to share. Youth Group was our home away from home so to speak. And even more so when it came time for us to go on our yearly summer week long youth conference in Montreat, NC. I cannot recall the year, but one trip we decided to skip our small group classes and go exploring. I remember we were so afraid of getting caught and not being where we were supposed to be, but Daniel and I both agreed the groups were awkward and made us nervous meeting new people. We walked around the lake that resides on the campus. We were staring at the lake and the ducks and Daniel turned to me and just said this. "I like it here. It's peaceful and I'm with my friends." It was so simple yet so powerful. That describes the heart that Daniel had. We grew apart over the years and found ourselves in different places as life often happens that way but from talking with others, that caring nature and having a big heart never went away.

“ Growing up with Daniel, we spent numerous weekend nights doing what boys do best. Getting into trouble and video games. I recall one particular night we were trying to beat a video game and tried hundreds of times, countless cans of soda to fuel our game night binge and on the verge of throwing the controller. We took a break and Daniel turned to me and said, I got this. I'm winning this for us. And on that last try, he won the game. We were so excited we couldn't stop laughing about how long it took to beat the game. Well, autosave didn't exist then and we forgot to save the game. But we didn't care. He and I knew he had beat the game. How fitting that Daniel would excel at computers and programming and did what he loved to do. I have many countless memories but that one still plays in my mind that he was determined for us to win and celebrate together. I will share more memories as I recall them. Prayers and love to everyone.
