“ I will always remember my cousin Helen as an intelligent, inquiring, thoughtful person. She put family first and always remembered birthdays. I loved sharing my time in England with her, and our visit to see the home of our Hillhouse ancestors in Scotland is a specially dear memory for me. Sadly, I hadn't seen her in more than a decade, but she stayed in touch through Christmas and birthday cards. I always felt Louisiana's loss was South Carolina's gain when she moved away. Bless you, dear cousin, and your family who have lost you. I know they'll have wonderful memories to console them. Love, Alice

“ I’ve been friends with Helen’s grandson Gabriel since middle school. Her house was the hangout spot for our friend group throughout grade school and often the place we would meet and catch up after. Helen was so welcoming and kind, always. We were all a part of the family, and any newcomer to the group was treated equally with her caring nature. That’s who she was. An amazing person.

Helen loved you dearly, Gabriel, and was so proud of you. I wish you and she had been able to make that trip to the UK while I was living there. She wanted you to see where the Hillhouse ancestors came from in Scotland as well.

“ Helen, we will miss you. What a great neighbor you were, always ready to say hello and look out for our house when we travelled. You were a big help to our community club, serving as a neighborhood captain. Your Christmas rum cakes are a legend in our family. And as you began to be unwell your determination to keep exercising and going for walks with your rollator was inspiring. We will miss you
