“ *I worked with James at General Electric and am deeply saddened by his passing. James was a man of great faith and his death in no way diminishes that fact. He shared his faith with me and encouraged me many times when I was sick. This is but a short time of separation when you look at God's complete picture of things. It's easy to celebrate for him but not for those left behind. I want you to know that I feel your loss and am praying for your continued strengt found in the Holy Spirit. I pray that as a family you will be able to display your faith as courageously as James did. He is victoreous and you are too. God bless you all.
Your brother in Christ,

“ May God comfort you and strengthen you with His loving arms, and fill you with His perfect peace and joy as the days grow old. This is a message God gave to me in 1997; I pray this will bless you, as well:

WE ARE ON LOAN

The people that God allows us to connect with, are actually loaned out to us for a while, from God.

Just as with anything that is loaned to us, we know that it is temporary. We will eventually have to give it back to the original owner.

And, with any loan, certain things are expected and required of both the loanee and the loaner, as well as, whatever is loaned to us.

First of all, The Loaner (God), promised Adam a companion that was fit or good enough for him, as he would not be lonely. And, this companion would love him and help him with whatever she could, and visa-versa. Automatically, we know the woman (Eve) had to be awesome in order to please Adam, as well as, help him.

Now, as for the loanee, as with any loan, a deposit of good faith is always required. In this case, it cost Adam a rib, in order to receive his companion.

The loanee is always expected to take excellent care of whatever they are loaned. Adam had to take care of Eve, as if she was his own property; something precious and valuable. Thus, being able to eventually return her in the same condition as she was originally; less any natural wear and tear, over the days, months, or years, in your possession.. Because you will be held accountable to God.

How we treat others, reflects how God will treat us, in the end. So, I suggest that that we should treat him or her, as well as, anyone else God loans to us, as God always treats us. With the love of God (agape love), respect, compassion, kindness, affection, understanding, honesty, sincerity, and constructive correction, when needed. We should enjoy and cherish every moment we have with our loved ones, because we never know when God is going to want them back.

Now, when The Lord comes for our loved ones, just as He will come for us one day, we should actually rejoice. For it is good to know, that God did not loan us out to people who were strangers at first, so as to forget about us, in this man-made-hell-whole-of-a world. Thank God, that He loves us enough to come back for us, who have kept His commandments and served Him well; just as He said He would. So, we should rejoice in knowing that if God came back for them, He will also return for us, to have everlasting life in Heaven with Him. Then obviously, Heaven is one big happy family reunion, with Our Father, together, forever.

Now I understand why God said in Psalm 30:5, 11: "For, His anger endureth but a moment; in His favour is life: weeping may endure for a night, but joy cometh in the morning." "Thou hast turned for me my mourning into dancing: Thou hast put off my sackcloth, and girded me with gladness."

Jesus said, Who is thy mother, who is thy father, who is thy sister, who is thy brother, but them that do the will of The Lord. We are not all perfect, but we all must try; try to love and forgive one another, as Christ loves and has forgiven us. So, to my family, I love you and I pray the Lord will bless you and keep you, always.

We will miss our brother, but if we live for God, we will see him again.

With all my love,

*Your Sister in Christ, Cathy Hawkins##imported-begin##Evangelist
