“ This past Sunday was bittersweet; it ended with the loss of our dear mother, Joyce Shelton at the young age of 68. A huge empty place has been left behind in our family.

Our mother died in faith, with dignity, in Christ. We lost a praying mother, but we have not lost her prayers. It has been said that parents could far better leave behind for their children a treasury of prayers than a treasury of gold and silver. We have been blessed in this way as children more than almost anyone else we know on this earth. What a treasury is laid up in store for us in the prayers of our dear mother! What a legacy!!!

We'll miss our Moms sweet smile, her kindness, her godliness. But now, how can we begrudge her her place at our dear father's side singing praise to God? She is now at home. So thankful for the years that God allowed us to spend with her and looking forward to seeing her sweet face again.

We love you Mom....ALWAYS!!!

“ When the Lord called Joyce there's no doubt she knew his voice. Although we wanted to keep her here, I'm sure God will hold her near. I know she wouldn't want us to be sad, but sis we're gonna to miss you so bad.

“To the Shelton Family and all who loved Joyce, I mourn with you today and in the coming days. Joyce was always loving to me and Kevin when we were hanging out with Devin. Devin became my best friend when we moved to Greer, and although we don't see each other much at all these days, or talk (not his fault), Devin will always be my best friend. Because I was at Joyce's house so much, or at their church that I later started attending every Sunday, Joyce and I became good friends, but more like family. She was kind of another mother to me; always gave me a hug and kiss, made sure I was fed and taken care of, and made me feel at home all the time with her kindness and her love and her mother-like attitude for me. That Gift of the Holy Spirit was all over Joyce! She will be missed, and we should mourn together. But then, let's celebrate her life on earth and all the people she touched. And let us rejoice that she is now in Heaven stating her new life with God the Father and Jesus our Savior! Love to you all, God Bless
