“ Last mother's day weekend, she came to visit me. We went thrift shopping because I didnt have a lot of basic homegoods and neither of us had much money. I saw this purple piko dress that was her size and style and surprised her at the register with it. She wore it to lunch at my restaurant on mother's day with my boyfriend's mom and family. She looked so beautiful and I will cherish her being with me that day, forever.

“ My memories of Karen are from many years ago when my daughter Jennifer and I moved to Lantana, FL from Michigan. It didn't take long for Karen and Jennifer to become friends spending a lot of time playing, swimming going to school together. I remember a beautiful little girl, full of life. I was heartbroken when I heard the news. Our thoughts and prayers are with her family and friends. May she Rest In Peace.

“ I remember one of our Christmas trips down to "South Carolina Gramma's" house. Its the first time I remember meeting auntie Karen. She introduced my brothers and I to Crash Bandicoot on Playstaton and we played a lot. I remember being in awe watching how good she was. When we went home, we found out that the playstation came with us! I'll never forget having an aunt so cool that she'd hang out with us kids and play video games for hours.

“ When Karen was 3 years old she slipped under the water at a lake in the family’s backyard. Nobody noticed for a few minutes, then her brother Steve saw her head bobbing at the surface and scooped her up, began CPR and ran her to the house. When Karen came back to consciousness she said “I saw Jesus! He held me and said I would be okay!”

Karen is now in the presence of the One who never let her go. She proclaimed her faith in Jesus to the end. We have this promise in scripture:

I give them eternal life, and they will never perish, and no one will snatch them out of my hand. ~John10:28

Karen, we love you and will miss you. God loves you best. We will see you again some glad morning!

In my mind I still see Karen as that bouncy little blonde who always had something cute to say as she wanted to stick by her mama’s side. I didn’t realize three weeks ago when she gave me such a tight hug that she would be gone so soon Her troubles are over and someday we will understand. My love goes to everyone in this family ❤️
