“ Kathleen was a unique and lovely woman who was a great help and support to all her friends and family. Just months after we met in 1997, our mutual love for England had us going on a trip that was one of the best times of my life. I'm sharing one of my favorite photos of Kathleen that was from this trip. She is sitting in Chalice Well Garden, Glastonbury. And there is a photo of both of us on our first day in London after having a lovely tea with a friend of mine, who also took us to Hyde Park.

After she moved to Greenville, SC where her daughter Karen was living, I came up to visit and she introduced me to the beauty of the South Carolina upstate...the mountains and the waterfalls. I moved up a few years later and she was a great help in getting me settled here.

It's hard to imagine this town without her being here, and I know she will be missed by the wide circle of people she touched with her friendship, counseling, and participation.

Love and blessings,

Thank you Shellie. That was beautiful. I can't believe my beautiful mother is no longer on this earth, but she is with me in spirit and in my heart always.
