“ We weren't close before you passed, or for a few years before that, but at a point in my life I saw you as my brother. I wish at some point in our lives I was able to tell me how all of the times you would try to teach me and Mackenzie how to play the drums or play your video games saved me from the things I was going through at home. I remember getting into so many fights with you, with Mackenzie right by my side for stealing your stuffed animals or going into your room when you weren't home to play on your drums. I wish someone was able to help you. You were so sweet and you had such a big heart. As the years went on, the last I saw of you was you walking bella throughout the neighborhood. I wish I would've said hi.

“ I taught Logan his 8th grade year of ELA. His gracious, thoughtful ways added so much to our class. My phone still holds lots of group pics—everything from his clowning around in a Shakespeare workshop to his reading along in a group novel study. The marvels of technology preserve the memory and let us hone in on this bright Soul we were blessed to walk with. Logan, I cried at school when I learned of your passing. I’m still grieving our loss, but I light a candle in memory of your ever-beautiful soul. You will forever remain in my heart as I remember you—absolutely precious, witty, and kind.

“ Logan was my student last year. His attitude and work in class was excellent everyday. His smile is going to be always with me. He came to talk to me when we started this school year and he was so excited to be in 10th grade and he said “I miss your class Mrs. Hanner”. Rest in peace “chico”!! 🌹 🌹

“ We met Amanda and Logan back in the fall of 2005. Logan was about 5 and a spitfire! I remember a time I watched him and had to send him off to school. I don't think I made his lunch right and he got mad at me. I didn't realize how important it was until just recently because I now have a grandson that's 5 and the little things that we take for granted aren't so little to them.

Logan, as a boy, You will be in our hearts always. To Amanda, Mckenzie, Terry and all who knew Logan as a young man, you are in our prayers and I pray that God-brings healing to all.

*Sincere condolences,
Matthew & Victoria Stevens*

“ Logan Jones made my childhood amazing. I cherish every moment we had together at his birthday parties and at events when we were little. I wish my buddy can see me now, as I've grown and even though it has been years, he's always been on my mind and in my heart. I hope he is in peace. Your brother in arms - Carlos Vidal Perez
