“ Debra and family, please know that each of you are in my thoughts and prayers. I have so many fond memories of Marion when we were young. All of the Watson boys walked on their hands, actually more than on their feet. Marion was good; however, I have to admit that Bailey was the best. Marion and Bailey tried to teach me and though I tried over and over, I never mastered that skill. When we became teenagers, we were still friends. I often visited the Red Diamond gas station that his father owned and where he worked. We would spend hours talking and giving each other advice. I know that each of you are going to miss him so much; however, may you find comfort in knowing that his suffering and pain has ended and he is resting in the arms of his Savior. Debra you said Marion told you he was ready to go home and even though you did not want to let him go, you did because you knew he was ready. That shows just how unconditional your love really was. The two of you had something that some people will never know so always think of that love in the difficult times. May God bless all of you now and always.

“ We will truly miss Marion at Immanuel. No matter what he was going through, he always had a smile on his face and a kind word. He will be dearly missed here, but we thank God for our Savior, and that we know with certainty that Marion's whole now and resting in Jesus' arms. Praying for peace and comfort for you all.
Sincerest condolences,
Darla
