“ My mom was one of the strongest women you could have ever known. She was blessed with a heart that carried her while she put every one else above anything she needed or wanted.

She worked her entire life in various jobs as a seamstress for approx. 20+ years until her hands wouldn't let her. She then took on the challenge of being a waitress full time. Most all of the next 15+ years at Lake View Steak House, where she ran those hardwood floors and stairs along side her sister Diane, until this horrible disease overcame her ability to continue any form of work outside the home.

My mom maintained a home for my dad of 51 years, and for me and my brother. She was a stickler for having a spotless home, and that every one's clothes be pressed/ironed by hand.

She held her composure in the toughest imaginable situations, carrying herself with grace and dignity.

She always welcomed with open arms with gentle kind words, a sweet voice and a smile few will forget.

My step-daughter said it best.

"She was a true Southern Lady. The kind we don't have enough of anymore."
