“ I remember stopping and spending many nights at Uncle Marvin and Aunt Pete's when we would go visit family in North Carolina when I was younger and a child. One of the first things we would always get was that thump on the head and it was his way of playing with us. He will be missed tremendously and without a doubt our LORD and SAVIOR has called him home. Though separated from us here in this world, you will not be forgotten and we shall all be reunited again and see each other in the future.

We're going to miss him. I worked with him on the Benevolence Committee. We talked with a couple once and the little children were so unclean. He told the mother, "You clean these babies up and put some clean clothes on them." She brought them to church the next Sunday and they were spic and span. He didn't mince any words, just told her like it was.
The children are going to miss him.

We moved across the street from the Weavils when our kids were ages 6 8 and 10. He felt more like a Grand Pa than a neighbor. Filling bike tires with air and fixing bike chains just because he noticed they needed it. Or just sitting in his yard talking with the kids. And he had nick names 20 years ago for them and still to this day he remembered those I have seen Marvin Weavil's love for children in 2 generations of our family now since we have been neighbors for 25 years and our grand children love him just as our children did and do. We are all going to miss him. Always a smile on his face. And yes candy for the grand kids too. I agree with the Minister, I always saw Jesus in Marvin Weavil.
