“ Ray & I were neighbors. We always were working in the yards together, helping each other dig things and such. We talked almost daily over the fence, and in each others yard. So many memories and stories, and we all shared Thanksgiving together one year. He will be dearly missed. I'm still looking for him when I go to mow the lawn, or have a project to do. I think any minute he'll come around the corner and we'll have our chat. We use to see him in Church every morning.
