“ Scott, you always the protector over my kids. You never let anyone hurt them or anything. You always called and kids loved it. The last night we all were together, you were so proud of your car. You drove us around for hours. We all got back and we goofed off. Believe it or not, you helped me more than you could imagine that night and next morning. Life isn't the same. I'm still trying to accept the fact you aren't coming back, you won't be calling anymore, no more anything. Not fair. I think about you everyday and although it's been 2 years, tears still come. I love you and miss you. The angels have you on their team.

“ Scott came over and ate dinner with my children and me. I cooked enough food to last days. I was gonna put the leftovers away and Scott said "Aunt Jeannie, there ain't gonna be any leftovers in this house today." So y'all know, he had eaten 2 full plates already. Well, he ate every bite of food and literally didn't leave a crumb. He stayed the night and helped cleaned the yard and went home. That was the last time I saw him. Scott always called us and checked on us. He was very protective of his cousins and me. Just to be able to have more time.... Now, my sweet nephew Scott, you have your wings. C u when I get there. We love you and miss you so much.

“ My brother! Only if you knew how much I miss you and how bad I need to speak to you. I really need you to be on the other side of this phone listening to me cry about what I've let myself become. While you tell me to get right with God and get off that shit. Get a job. Those would be your response to me.

“ When I found out the news, I felt my heart drop and shatter. It felt as if I couldn't breathe. I didn't want to believe it. I wish this was a dream. I cry every night, wishing I could have one more chance to hear your voice. Wishing I could've met you in person. I miss our hours straight chats. I miss you Scotty, so much. You will forever be our hearts. I will never stop thinking about.

I love you king. Rest In Peace 🍀💛💔

The greatest man I've ever met. I thank God for putting him in my life. I couldn't of received anyone better than himself. Southern, gentleman, responsible, motivated, determined, and independent handsome young man. My every thing was took too soon. My whole world is just now gone. But I thank God every day that I know he is some where can't nobody ever hurt him ever again. No one will break his heart. I don't have to be worrying about him committing suicide because he felt he wasn't good enough. He had a happy but rough life. He met people along the way to help him get through what he had happened. Nobody understands what people go through or what effect it does to them. They don't think about how some one would react to something you wouldnt expect to get a reaction towards. There are people that can get through struggles and break ups and everything alot better than a person that handles things differently. What make one suicidal or homicidal might not make the next person suicidal or homicidal. What we been through messes with our mind and that's where it begins to form a abnormal function in your mind that shouldn't of never been triggered. All he wanted to do was work, love hard, pay bills, go fishing and lift weights. He admired the work he done and his work crew. People really do make impacts and effects on others lives and nobody understands what you have until its gone and then it's too late. Don't nobody try to love him now If you didn't love him before. It's been a year and I still hurt. I think about him every day. From daylight to midnight. He is thought of. never knew you were going to be taken so soon bubba. If I did I would of told you how much I love you. And how thankful I am for having you. Not many people In this world would of met the greatness in you. But I was blessed with the chance to be born with you and grow up with you. Not a day were you not there. I fought you fought .. you fought and I fought. Men and women. Who ever wanted it. You Ashley and I. My heart cries out for you. I hope you will be able to heal it permeantly .

“ It's been too quiet at work without Flash here, playing his music and singing. He made sure to tell us all how much he loved his GRS family. It still doesn't seem real that you are gone. You were such a kind and tender-hearted soul, too kind in fact. You remind us all that life is short and we are not promised tomorrow. I pray that you are resting peacefully buddy. Your sweet spirit will be missed greatly here on earth.
