“ I remember when she came in the EMS shop at the VSC it was hot outside she walk in and said Jimmy your going to have to do something where burning up I just set at my desk and cool off as I was walking out she I’m sorry Jimmy I said for what? Jump you as soon as I came in I told her that was not you it was the heat. So I found the problem and fixed it quickly and came back in and just looked at her she said don’t tell me we will have to swap trucks? So I rub my face and look at her with a sad face and said No I guess your going to have to say in itI fix your air condition she jump up and gave me a hug and said your the man I just said that’s what we’re here for and we laughed and they where 10-8 from 10-32

“ To know Stephanie was to love her. She always had such a kindred spirit. She never hesitated to step up and be a team player. She was patient with me and her teachings. I remember being amazed that such a little being drove such a big truck! I teased her about that and her my country girl. She was special and there will never be another like her. I was blessed to know her. My sincerest condolences to all her family and friends. We love you and you will be missed " My Country Girl"

“ Steph was one of my first friends in Paramedic class. She was Southern, skinny, sassy, smart, sarcastic, and sweet. She wore her huge heart on her sleeve and was the example of compassion for others that we, as jaded providers, sometimes forget to be. She and I battled cancer at the same time and went into remission at the same time. Our bond as medics, wading through the mess of our jobs was strengthened by this very personal fight. She was always an encouragement to me. She was my friend, my colleague, and most importantly, my sister in Christ. My life for the last almost thirty years was better because she was a part of it. We shared our triumphs and our tragedies. I'm still reeling from the news of her loss and I expect to be for some time. I mourn your loss, but I know that you are finally home, with no more pain, no more sorrow, and no more disappointments. I love you, chick; I always have and I always will. You did so much for so many. I can't wait to see you again Ruv ya rots. (Driving faster) Ken.
