“ I knew Tyler a long time ago. He was my brother’s friend and he substituted for a few of my classes in high school. He was a nice guy and truly cared for his students.

“ I remember being in Mr. Crosby’s class every day last year, second semester. That was the only time I ever had his class, I wish it could have been more than that, but I thank him endlessly for the positive ways he changed my life in that short amount of time. I have always struggled with enjoying school or even just attending school, and he made me look forward to attending school every day. I remember one day, there was a spider about as big as the palm of my hand in his classroom, everyone was freaking out, even him, and him and I were arguing whether or not to kill it or let it out of his classroom window. I ended up winning that argument, so we let the spider out of his window, and he told me, “you’ve got my adrenaline up first thing in the morning, Maxwell!” And we continued with class. I also remember him being one of the first teachers to call me by my preferred pronouns. He was always so sweet and respectful and he’ll always hold a place in my heart as my favorite teacher and the one teacher who treated me like a human rather than just a student. I can speak for everyone when I say we love and miss Mr. Crosby. I hope the family is coping in healthy ways and I have them in my thoughts and heart always.

“ Mr. Crosby was my history and historical films teacher when I attended Broome High School. He made a huge impact on me in several ways. His history class was not a typical one as he challenged his students to critically think about history and their own political and moral views. I remember we once had to fill out this form and the form showed us which way we leaned on certain issues and then he asked us to defend our view. That opened up my eyes to a lot of things and gave me the confidence to share what I believe. He was the kind of teacher to speak to everyone. I was one of the lesser-known quiet students and I remember how he sought me out and made me feel seen. Also, as I was telling him about my plans to move to Minnesota for college and then to travel while doing ministry, he was very excited and supportive. Now, as I am finishing up my ministry degree and moving to South Africa for three months, I am sure he would have loved to know that I am doing what I talked about those years ago. What an amazing man, friend, teacher, coach, and mentor.

“ I remember having Mr. Crosby as my home room teacher 10th grade year at Broome. He was always so kind to me after I graduated high school in 2014. We stayed in contact with each other. I am going to miss Mr. Crosby a lot.

“ I had the pleasure of meeting Tyler on our USC Upstate 2011 Europe Trip. My mom accompanied me on the trip, and Tyler was always so sweet to help her with her bags when our tiny hotels didn't have an elevator. She was impressed with his chivalry. lol Everyone was drawn to Tyler though. They could feel his kind, positive energy. I am honored to have crossed paths with Tyler and I know his smile will be missed by many. Sending my deepest condolences to his family and friend.
