“ Our family (my wife and I and our many children) held Mr. White in high regard. A veteran, teacher, and business owner who served his community, with dedication and kindness. We will certainly miss his kindness and service, and his willingness to always help out. Many times, if we came and milk wasn't readily bottled, he would come from his home, and bottle it on the spot for us, as many bottles as we needed. As we would drive several hours round trip, it would sometimes be 15 or more, and his kindness and patience was truly appreciated. His dedication to quality was always appreciated, and those who worked with him knew this. We certainly prayed for various ailments as we knew of them. Thank you again for all of the conversations, and the times when we were able to show our children how the milk came from field to glass!

“ Dear Family of Wilbur White, You are each in our prayers as we remember Farmer & Teacher Mister White. 2 years ago Mother's Day, my daughter Joan Craig brought me to Mr. White's Dairy to learn how to milk a cow. Mr. White patiently taught us everything about his days caring for his cows by name, feeding, milking, calling by name, how he processed the milk & sold it by the honor system. He also sold buttermilk & churned butter. We each did milk a cow named Fancy by hand & then Mr. White finished milking her with the auto milkers. He was a very good teacher. I have a photo of Mr. White & myself. We bought the best tasting milk ever & we have very fond memories of our day with Mr. White, & our friends love his milk also. Bea Heberger & Joan Craig

“ Hello this is Susanna, I came to help Wilbur out to put milk into jugs twice a week for a year and a half, he worked really hard everyday until he couldn't walk anymore. He told me poems, stories and shared lots of memories to me about his life, I know he truly cared about his cows and people, always tried to enlighten knowledge in anyway he could. I had really good conversations with him about health and politics and life in general. Was super sweet and let me take a few jugs of milk home for helping out, and my family (dad is beekeepr) also shared honey with him for being such a kind person. I became to know him very well and was good friends with him, I'm really sad to learn of his passing. I will always treasure all the memories I had with him. May God bless his family, stay strong.

“ Best boss ever. We milked cows for him on Sunday for many years and then everyday toward the end. We will miss his huge smile and humor and scripture and poetry recitation (his mind was so sharp) and his knowledge and wisdom and appreciation of Jersey milking cows, very old Chevrolet trucks and John Deere tractor, the Bible, and well, life. We very much look forward to seeing him again on the other side.

“ My memory that I will never forget of Uncle Wilbur was when he showed us his cows. It was pouring down rain and he took us to the area that he pasteurized the milk. It was neat because people could come and pick up there milk from there on an honor system! He wanted us to try some of his unpasteurized milk and said it was the best, most creamiest milk we'd ever taste! I told him that I was allergic to milk and he said with a big smile, "This milk is different, it's pure and it won't bother you!" I wanted to try it so badly that I believed every bit of what he said. I tried one sip of the delicious milk! The next hour was spent running to the gas station to get Benadryl, having an itchy throat that was closing, upset stomach ready to throw up, and snot pouring out! In the end I was fine an hour later and grateful that I got to experience fresh unpasteurized milk! We still laugh about this memory!

We didn't get the chance to know Uncle Wilbur very much, but we enjoyed his smile and his humor. We felt very blessed to visit him and his farm while he was healthy and vibrant! Thank you Lord for his sweet soul and the fabulous memories he made here on Earth!
