“ As a lifelong close friend of Randy, I always appreciated the tremendously warm, easy going, and welcoming nature of Mrs. Hughes. Everyone was welcome in her house; she never cast a critical eye, and her home-cooked, good ol' southern style food was always offered as part of your visit. In fact, many years ago, her kitchen is where I had my first bowl of squirrel stew! As a dedicated wife to the late Mr. Hughes (a "mountain" of a man in his own right!) and as the mother of four very "active" children, surely her patience (and faith!) was tested on countless occasions, but she was a calm and steady matriarch, seemingly effortlessly serving as a positive role model for her children that has held them in good stead throughout their lives. Mrs. Hughes was always very kind to me, even during those young adult days when Randy and I would partner up in one shenanigan or another. It was the same for all who had the pleasure and honor of knowing her. In later years, Mrs. Hughes would welcome my wife into her world, and she would always ask for updates on our family. If she ever uttered a loud word in anger, I never heard of it, and I certainly never experienced it myself. She lived a proper and purposeful life, one to be admired and cherished. She will be dearly missed. Judy and I send our sincere condolences to the entire Hughes family.
